New York: Fullett, Foster & Oc., 1888; Chicagor
John R. Walsh.
With the writings of Mr. Taylor, Chicago readers are familiar. This volume has longbeen out of print, and the second edition, which is much superior to the first one in mechanical execution, will be experty soughtfor. It is made up of brief articles, confushtion of the process the second confushpice to the press through many years, and contains many geme of im analive writing and passages full of manos which have sarely been excelled. All who have read. "The Old Fashioned Mother," and "A Voice from the

LIFE AND CORRESPONDENCE OF THEODORE
PARKER, MINISTED OF THE TWEATTRIGHTH CONGREDATIONAL BOCKETY, BOSTON, by John Wisse, Two role. New York:
D. Appleton & Co., isoli.

Whatever men may think or believe of the theology of Theodore Parket, as developed in his realistic notions, which he so stoutly maintained, they must give him the credit of a gigantic intellect; of a firm, unyielding belief in God; of a spotless life and a pure
personal morality; of a nice discrimination
and a searching analysis of eventa, no subtle indeed that in 1856 he predicted explicitly that in the event of Mr. Buchanna's election to the Presidency, the Union would be dissolved by civil war before the close of his term of office; of a life-time of facce; indignation and tremendous assaults upon slavery; of being a thorough and unanswerable interpreter of the Higher Law. He belonged to a mee of intellectual glants, who came before his time—before the world was readyfor him. The meteor dazzled the men of his day. The future alone will comprehend him the to invertee to him. In his character, his

Organ concerts are the present exe at Leeds, England. They are given Sparks, an eminent organist, on the gan in the new town hall. LITTLE OR NOTHINGS. What is mind? No matter. What is mat-er? Never mind. What is the soul? It is nonaterial.—Panch. mmaterial.—Peach.

—Ferry time a man visits a "free concert's either in froad way, he planges into the depths of a basement—and no mistake.

—The height of idiocy—to ass a man who is " worth a son.

The height of idiccy—to see a man who isn't worth a sow.

—A physician, examining his student as to his progress, asked him, "should a mon fail into a well forty feet deep, and strike his head against one of the tools with which he had been digging, what would be your course if called in as a sungeen." The etndent replied, "I should advise them to let the man like, and sill up the well."

—Some of the stanzas Which are sent to the daily press for publication by ambitious poetics lyros, remind us of the recent attempt of a young triend of ours:

Ans there was, who built a mill, And thep he boilt a dam;

Asw mill log rolled over him, And killed him—swey!

—The "Irish Buil" is not peculiar and patent to corduroys. A writer in the Dublis University Mogarise, speaking of the poor Irish, says: "Many thousands of them were often seemit of the only food they possessed."
